

GOV. HOFFMAN AT HAUPTMANN'S HOME TODAY

EX-SECRETARY OF TOWNSEND MOVE CALLED

Clement First Witness in Congress' In- vestigation

Washington, March 26.—(AP)—Testimony that the Townsend old age pension organization had an income of $43,295 during the first 12 months of its existence was given a congressional investigating committee today by Robert B. Clements, 41, resigned national secretary.

The co-founder of the organization was still on the witness stand when the committee recessed for lunch. James R. Sullivan, special committee prosecutor, was pressing his questions on the revenue and bank deposits of the Old Age Revolving Pension, Inc., of which Dr. F. E. Townsend is president. The organization was incorporated in January, 1934.

Clements said he personally had collected no money for the organization nor had he received any as donations or from the sale of Townsend literature.

Never Handled Funds
"No money of this organization has ever passed through my hands," Clements replied to a question as to whether any revenue had not been deposited.

Clements said the $43,295 on deposit in the Citizens State Bank of Long Beach, Calif., was left there when the Townsend organization moved to Los Angeles about the first of December, 1934.

He testified the account in the Long Beach bank was not opened coincident with the opening of the first Townsend office in Long Beach, January 15, 1934. The account, he indicated, was opened about the first of February.

Clements said he did not know how much was taken in before the opening of the bank account but that Dr. Townsend had received some money from the sale of literature and from voluntary contributions.

"I did not devote my entire time to the Townsend movement until March or April in 1934," he testified.

Started In West

Clements said Dr. Townsend first approached him with a pension plan in the fall of 1933. The western region of the Townsend organization was started about June, 1935, he added, and the eastern and southern regions the following month.

Clements testified that the Townsend books were in a "muddle" and "unintelligible" prior to July 1, 1935.

He said the books never were in a "mess."

Townsend, with whom he has split because of "differences," today was termed "a brilliant man and a physician of note," by Clements.

He was the first witness in the $50,000 house investigation of the Townsend and other old age pensioners.

ion movements from which committee members have promised "startling" revelations. Clements resigned this week as secretary of the Townsend organization.

In Real Estate Business
Sullivan's first queries related to his pre-Townsend real estate business, but Clements insisted that they be carefully phrased.

He said he first became acquainted with Dr. Townsend about 1926 or 1927 in Long Beach, Cal. Townsend, Clements testified, also was engaged in some real estate promotion work.

Sullivan questioned Clements particularly about the attitude of committee investigators sent to his office. Clements said they were courteous in every respect.

Clements said he was not present in the House galleries when Representative Kramer (D-Calif.) had charged "back-alley" tactics and "bullying." Nor, he said, had he made any such complaints.

Representative Tolson (D-Calif.), a Townsendite committee member, said: "Congressman Kramer is not on trial. This has nothing to do with the issue here."

Too Much Credence
"The objection is overruled," Chairman Bell (D-Mo.) remarked. Clements said that, to his knowledge, no Townsend organization employee had provided Kramer or the Townsend writer with information to form the basis of the accusations.

"The statement in the weekly," Clements remarked, "comes from giving too much credence to the Congressional Record."

Waives Immunity

Washington, March 26.—(AP)—Mrs. James A. Meeks, wife of the Illinois representative, was fined $5 on a speeding charge in traffic court today after her husband had announced he would not claim congressional immunity against punishment for the offense.

B. J. Beckman, a park policeman, reported she drove 38 miles an hour in Rock Creek park yesterday morning. He said he stopped the car and directed her to appear in court despite the fact that she called attention to the congressional tag on the front of the automobile.

Meeks testified: "I was on my way to a congressional hearing at the time we were stopped by the officer, but I am not claiming immunity. I am a practicing attorney and merely wish to place the facts before the court."

DECATUR NAMES NEW MAYOR TO FILL OUT TERM

Decatur, Ill., March 26.—(AP)—Charles E. Lee, 40 year old attorney, was named mayor by the city council today, to fill out the unexpired term of Harry Barber, who resigned March 2 after having been indicted on malfeasance and other charges.

Lee, an independent Republican, served in the Illinois Senate from 1928 to 1932. He was defeated for re-election.

Since Barber's resignation finance commissioner Walter Rugh had been acting mayor. Under the law, unless a succession was named by the council within 30 days after Barber's resignation, Rugh would have retained the office for the three remaining years of the term. Barber's indictment on charges of malfeasance, embezzlement and misstatement of campaign expenditures followed an investigation of vice conditions in Decatur. The charges are still pending against him and State's Attorney Arthur Frazier, who also was accused of misconduct in office.

Little Heiress is Victim of Grippe

New York, March 26.—(AP)—Little Gloria Vanderbilt, 13-year-old heiress to a $5,000,000 fortune, was recovering from the grippe today after several days treatment by doctors who once testified against her mother in a custody battle for the child.

Attorney Louis D. Frohlich, counsel for Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, the mother, said the child became ill of a cold while visiting her aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney. Grippe developed when she was passing the weekend with her mother.

Although little Gloria is required to spend most of her time with Mrs. Whitney by the court decision which was given in the custody battle, Frohlich said the doctors had ordered the child to stay with her mother until further improvement in her condition is noted.

Dance Band Leader Held Up this Morn

Chicago, March 26.—(AP)—Jan Garber, dance band leader, and his wife were robbed of $50 and jewelry they valued at $2,800 early today by two gunmen.

Methods employed in the hold-up prompted investigators to link it to the operations of the "theater bandit gang," preying on show and night club patrons. Members of the clique were blamed for the recent robberies of orchestra leader George Olsen and his singing wife, Ethel Shutta, and Betty Grable and Jackie Coogan of the films.

Garber, appearing at a loop theater, was robbed at the garage in the rear of his south side home.

Plowman Retires as His Store is Moved

The Plowman grocery which for several years has been located at 90 Galena avenue, will open in a new location, 108 East First street, directly east of the City National bank building tomorrow morning. The move was made necessary on account of the razing of the building on the corner of Commercial and Galena avenue where the Plowman store has occupied the ground floor. Roy Plowman has retired from the active duties in connection with the thriving business and his son Roy, Jr. is now in complete charge. The new location has undergone extensive repairs and has been thoroughly renovated and redecorated.

OHIO VALLEY FLOOD DANGER WANING TODAY

Rivermen Anticipate No Menace to Hu- mans Along River

Marietta, O., March 26.—(AP)—A new flood menace in the upper Ohio river valley waned today, apparently without adding to last week's devastation.

Muddy, debris-filled waters covered lowlands from Pittsburgh to below Louisville, Ky., in the flood-ravaged valley, but no serious concern was felt. They hampered, however, relief and rehabilitation. Fresh flood waters which swept out of the western Alleghenies and northeastern Ohio rivers yesterday were receding at Pittsburgh and had reached their crest at East Liverpool and Steubenville.

Observers in the upper valley, which last week experienced its worst flood in history, said the fresh rise would cause no additional damage and would only add to the hardships of thousands of flood refugees.

Falls at Cincinnati
At Cincinnati, 400 miles below Pittsburgh, the river stage at 8 A. M. was 59.5 and falling slowly. Upper river points in the tri-state area of Kentucky, West Virginia and Ohio viewed this as an indication that the river would be able to carry off the fresh waters from the north.

A new crest of 59.9 feet, 2.9 above flood stage, was reached at East Liverpool during the morning. Steubenville, where the water rose to 52.6 feet last week, reported a crest of 37.2. The river was stationary at these points, but was expected to start falling before night.

Anticipate Little Damage
The Martins Ferry, O.—Wheeling, W. Va., district, with a stage of 38.8 and the river rising twenty feet of a foot an hour, awaited a crest of 40 to 41 feet late this afternoon.

This would inundate half of Wheeling island, where 10,000 were made homeless last week. Only small portions of Martins Ferry, Wheeling, and nearby Bridgeport and Bellaire, O., were expected to be flooded.

In Marietta, pioneer Ohio city, the new flood was not expected to reach main streets in the business section, where last week water flowed eight to ten feet deep. The 9 A. M. stage was 36.5 feet. The river was rising slowly and a stage under 39 feet was anticipated.

STEEL PLANTS RESUME
Pittsburgh, March 26.—(AP)—A quickening business tempo which some industrial leaders saw as a harbinger of great days for the industry took the place today of the paralysis which descended after the flood.

Just seven days after the waters began their recession payrolls and production in the steel mills were at normal or higher.

Benjamin J. Fairless, president of the giant Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, took stock of the situation and said:

"Even apart from the extra business that will come from rehabilitation, the outlook for the first half of the year is very good."

"Carnegie-Illinois is practically normal now, except for the Mingo works near Steubenville. The pay-

Mite Lost Fight

Oakland, Calif., March 26.—(AP)—After 53 promising days of life in a hospital incubator, one of the world's tiniest babies is dead.

Nancy Lee Vogt, whose weight at birth was estimated at 15 ounces, apparently had passed a crisis of prematurity when she became ill suddenly yesterday and died in two hours.

Dr. John W. Sherrick, who tended her constantly, said death was the result of immaturity and improper development and functioning of some of the vital organs. Anemia contributed, he said. The baby's weight was estimated when she was born because physicians were unwilling to keep her from the incubator long enough to place her on scales.

BAKERY CHAIN HEAD IS FREED MURDER CHARGE

Chicago, March 26.—(AP)—Irving Weitzman, freed of charges of murdering Advertising Executive Eli Daiches by a directed verdict of acquittal, returned to his duties as head of a bakery chain today.

The second trial of the five-foot defendant, who was sentenced to life imprisonment following his conviction in the first one last year, ended late yesterday.

Weitzman won the second trial in an appeal to the Illinois Supreme Court. That tribunal reversed the guilty verdict because it found the testimony of the state's star witness, Walter Murphy, "difficult to believe."

Murphy, an admitted gunman who spoke in the racy vernacular of the underworld, repeated his story from the witness stand this week. He claimed Weitzman paid him $5,000 to slay Daiches, high official of the Thomas M. Bowers advertising agency. Louis Weitzman, brother of Irving, was chairman of the board. The state charged $300,000 in insurance, payable to the company, formed the motive for the killing.

Murphy contended he snubbed the contract to Jerry Pilot, an alcohol runner since slain, and Jack London, who has never been apprehended.

Belleville, Ill., March 26.—(AP)—The name of Walter Nesbit of Belleville, candidate for committeeman of the Illinois Democratic central committee from the 22nd district, will not appear on the sample and official ballots for the Democratic primary.

Nesbit's petition for candidacy was recently held invalid by the state certifying board through a technicality. He appealed to the circuit court for a writ of mandamus and Tuesday the writ was taken to the Illinois Supreme Court on a writ of superseades.

D. A. Prindable, St. Clair county clerk, ordered the ballots yesterday and left off Nesbit's name. He explained he could not wait for a ruling from the court, which will not act before April 7, a week before the primaries.

Three Ohioans Dead, Victims of Coal Gas

Warren, O., March 26.—(AP)—Three persons were found dead from gas fumes in their home here today and a fourth was near death in St. Joseph's hospital.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Carter, both about 58, and Mrs. Catherine Forrest, 73, were found when Carter's son, Jack, came to the home to take his father to work.

Dorothy May Carter, a school girl, was unconscious on the living room floor. She was taken to the hospital.

Coroner J. C. Henshaw blamed fumes from a coal stove in the living room.

Fear Nine of Crew
of French Vessel
Lost in Collision

Skagness, Lincolnshire, Eng., March 26.—(AP)—The French S. S. Boree went down today 20 miles off the coast with the probable loss of nine lives after colliding with an unidentified ship.

Rescue vessels picked up 13 survivors of a crew of 22. The captain, among those rescued, said: "There was a dense fog at the time of the collision, but I do not know the name of the other ship."

The Boree was of 1882 tons registered and was carrying a cargo of coal.

Fred H. Hill, Prominent Dixon Township Farmer, Fatally Hurt Wednesday

Struck By Car Driven By Oregon Lad Near His Home

Fred Henry Hill, prominent farmer of Dixon township and resident of this locality his entire life time, sustained fatal injuries about 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon when struck by an automobile driven by Charles Koontz, 15-year-old Oregon high school student, at the Brierton school corners, three miles east of Dixon on state route 2. His death took place at the Katherine Shaw Betha hospital at 6:20 this morning.

Coroner Frank M. Banker of Franklin Grove conducted an inquest at the Preston chapel at 9:30 this morning at which the young driver of the car; Curtis Kuntzelman, his passenger; and Mr. and Mrs. Will Schmidt, who reside on a farm near the scene of the tragedy, were witnesses. State's Attorney Edward Jones conducted the questioning of the witnesses and Attorney Morey Pires appeared for the family of the deceased.

Koontz testified that he was enroute from Oregon to Dixon to consult a physician and was driving at a speed of about 45 miles an hour as he approached the Brierton school corners, and that he observed Mr. Hill on the north side of the paving. Another car, coming toward Dixon had passed the pedestrian and he apparently did not observe the Koontz car, the youth said.

Seemed Confused
Stepping onto the paving, Mr. Hill saw the Oregon machine and seemed confused as he attempted to get out of its path, the youth said. The driver applied the brakes and swerved partly off the paving to the right, the left front fender striking the victim and throwing his body to the south of the cement slab. The Oregon student stated that upon stopping his car, he and his companion assisted in placing Mr. Hill in their car and rushed him to the Dixon hospital. Koontz then proceeded to the city police station where he made a report of the accident to Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber.

The testimony of Kuntzelman, aged 16, also an Oregon high school student, corroborated that of the driver of the car.

Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt, who reside on a farm at the Brierton school corners, testified that Mr. Hill had talked with them in the yard, then left to go to the mail boxes at the corner. Mr. Schmidt went into the barn to finish his chores and Mrs. Schmidt testified that she heard the brakes of the car applied and turning saw Mr. Hill's body thrown about ten feet into the air and about 50 feet ahead of the machine. She called to her husband, who went to the scene, assisted in placing the victim in the Oregon car and accompanied him to the hospital. Kuntzelman came to Dixon in another car which arrived at the scene of the accident shortly afterward.

Verdict: "Accident"
The verdict of the jury attributed the death to a skull fracture and other injuries accidentally sustained.

Dr. Charles H. LeSage, who attended the deceased at the hospital, in a statement presented to the jury outlined the injuries. The left leg was broken, the bones protruding through the flesh, a deep gash in the right leg, cuts and bruises about the face and a skull fracture. The tragic accident was the second automobile fatality in Dixon township in less than one week.

The victim was born in Dixon township January 25, 1860 and had spent his entire life time in this locality. He was a very successful and enterprising farmer and extensive land owner and employer.

Hitler Aide to be Invited to Attend Harvard Festivity

Cambridge, Mass., March 26.—(AP)—An invitation to attend the 300th anniversary exercises of Harvard College was in the mail today for Dr. Ernest Hanfstaengl, Adolf Hitler's Harvard graduate aide.

Dr. James Bryant Conant, president of Harvard, twice within the past two years has refused offers of scholarships from Hanfstaengl because of his association with Germany's Nazi regime.

President Roosevelt, a Harvard graduate, also, has been invited to attend the tercentenary celebration in September.

SYLVIA SEEKS DIVORCE

Los Angeles, March 26.—(AP)—Sylvia Sydney, dark-haired movie actress, filed suit for divorce today from Bennett Cerf, New York publisher. She charges cruelty, accusing him, specifically, of quarreling with her over the time she gave to her picture work.

They were married at Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 1, 1935 and separated Jan. 2, 1936, the complaint stated.

Girl Tortured

Richmond, Va., March 26.—(AP)—A 23-year-old girl's story of having been stripped of her clothes and then tortured with fire was disclosed today as police ordered four young men to a court hearing. The youths arrested on the girl's accusation were booked as James Brooks, 23, Oliver Darden, 25, Stephen Bohannan, 25, and Samuel Overby, 26.

Their accuser said they held her captive for hours last Saturday night in a secluded glen, beat her, ripped the clothes from her body and tortured her with lighted matches.

Early Sunday (he bruised, bloodstained girl staggered into a South Richmond police station with her story. The four were arrested later that day.

Police Lieutenant Dan Duling said Bohannan had admitted a part of the girl's charges while the other three told Duling they were present.

LONERGAN BILL HEARINGS ARE AT END TODAY

Washington, March 26.—(AP)—Hearings on the Lonergan stream pollution bill concluded today before a Senate sub-committee with an appeal from wild life conservationists and those interested in public health for enactment of legislation to regulate the discharge of waste into public waters.

As the hearings ended, Chairman Caraway (D-Ark) of the sub-committee said there was "so much business" before the Senate that it appeared problematic whether the bill would be considered this session.

(The bill would authorize establishment of drainage districts embracing several states which would have power to establish and enforce purity standards for streams within its jurisdiction.)

J. P. Kerr of Versailles, Ill., president of the association of drainage and levee districts of Illinois, endorsed the bill as a protection to "downstream" residents along rivers which he said were polluted by upstream industry. The Illinois river, he said, is polluted by discharge of Chicago sewage. He branded the Chicago stockyards a "trespasser."

SEEKS TO DIS- PROVE LADDER WAS GERMAN'S

Spends Five Hours in Bronx Attic With His Ideas

(Copyright, 1936, by The Associated Press)
New York, March 26.—Governor Harold G. Hoffman spent almost five hours in Bruno Richard Hauptmann's Bronx home today, checking evidence connecting the convicted Lindbergh kidnap killer with the kidnap ladder. The examination was not conclusive, the governor said.

"We have been looking at the wood and no conclusion" can be drawn until we make further tests," he declared as he left the house.

The governor with his aides, and Attorney General David T. Wilentz and prosecution officials had been busy in the Hauptmann house from 9 A. M. until 1:40 P. M.

Wilentz had little to say on the examinations made in the house.

Prosecution Watchful
"The prosecution staff," said he, "felt they had no part in today's investigation, but had a fear because of the improper questioning of at least one of the state police officers by a person or agency without authority and unknown to us."

Meanwhile, Paul G. Clancy, publisher of an astrology magazine which is financing an investigation of the kidnapping in Hauptmann's behalf, made public a statement from Gaston B. Means, who is in Federal prison on conviction of bribing Mrs. Evelyn Walsh Melson of Washington of $104,000 in spurious ransom negotiations.

The statement, as given out by Clancy, declared Hauptmann is innocent and that Means himself made the kidnap ladder.

Officials Skeptical
Hoffman has a copy of the statement, but justice department authorities in Washington expressed belief that the declarations were merely an effort by Means to gain temporary freedom.

The officials said his "theories" had been investigated and disproved.

Results of the governor's visit to the Bronx residence probably will be presented to the Court of Pardons at Trenton when it considers Hauptmann's second appeal for a commutation.

He is scheduled to die in the electric chair next Tuesday night.

The governor was particularly interested in testing whether holes in "rail 16," which the state contended originally was part of a floor board in Hauptmann's attic, fitted adjacent boards.

The state successfully contended at Hauptmann's Flemington trial that rail 16 was originally part of a floor board in the Hauptmann attic. Arthur Koehler, federal wood technologist, testified the ladder rail had been cut from the floor board, part of which remained in the attic at the time of Hauptmann's arrest. The grain of the rail matched this floorboard, he swore, and the ladder rail nail-holes fitted nailholes in the joists.

Little Up to Court
With little prospect of executive intervention, Hauptmann's chances of escaping execution next Tuesday night rested today with the court of pardons and the judge who sentenced him to death.

Governor Hoffman, a member of the court, planned to consult Chancellor Luther A. Campbell today on the advisability of a hearing on the convicted slayer's new plea for clemency.

Should the court turn thumbs down on the convicted Lindbergh kidnaper as it did two and a half months ago, judicial intervention remained his only hope and appeared remote.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz's most recent comment on the case was that its status has not changed and there is no reason why Hauptmann should escape.

Bruno Signs Plea
Hauptmann fixed his signature to the pardons court application in the death house yesterday in the presence of his counsel, C. Lloyd Fisher, and his wife, Anna.

Fisher said he told him the date of his execution had been fixed, but that he said nothing and Hauptmann's face revealed no emotion. He said he was still confident "everything would be all right."

The court may deny the application without arguments, or it may decide to have a hearing as it did on January 11 when it rejected Hauptmann's first plea for mercy.

A hearing, however, is not likely to be held either today or tomorrow, since the Court of Errors and Appeals will be in session on these days, and the chancellor and the six lay judges, who with the governor comprise the membership of the pardons court, will be busy.

IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS,
Shawneetown, Ill., March 26—(AP)—Heavy rains fell today all along the Ohio river in this section of Illinois, adding their threat to the crushing waters from upstream. Continuing its steady rise, the river went to 38.2 feet here, 6.8 feet short of the expected crest.

At Harrisburg, inland from the stream, more than an inch of rain fell within three hours this morning.

Rivermen were still confident the approaching high water would not endanger human life. With the prospect of steady rains, however, they saw further inundation of farm lands on the bottoms.

Shawneetown itself is protected by a sea wall against a 60 foot flood stage.

The Shawneetown ferry will suspend operation tonight at 6 P. M. officials announced today after it was disclosed the road approaching the ferry landing on the Kentucky side of the Ohio river was unsafe for travel because of rising flood waters.

Benefit Party for Catholic Mission at Nelson April 3
The village of Nelson is to have a Catholic mission chapel in the very near future. Parishoners worshipping at both Dixon and Sterling churches have taken the initiative and through the beneficence of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bevilacqua, a fine lot has been given over for this purpose. The plans are to construct a temporary structure in which services can be held regularly, the mission to be supplied by St. Patrick's parish of this city. Later it is hoped to see the erection of a modern edifice on the site.

Several citizens of Nelson who are sponsoring the movement to provide the mission have arranged for a public card party which will be held at the school house in Nelson on Friday evening, April 3.

Harper was head of the organization, the witness said, and he himself was sales manager, being paid on a commission basis.

DARK CORNER

By Joseph Fort Newton
"W" HAT is man? Why is he such a mixture of sentiment and sensuality, mysticism and meanness, dirt and deity? Can he ever have an ordered life? Can human nature ever be changed?

Yes, provided we can ever learn what human nature is. Today we do not know. It is a mystery. If not a mess, beyond both science and religion. A great man of science writes a book, "Man, the Unknown."

To science man is a material unit, made up of salts, acids, liquids, all of which can be bought for less than two dollars. Even his soul is "the aggregate of biological interests," as we say.

To religion man is a trinity of body, mind and spirit, but it does not know the difference between mind and spirit, if there is any. Does mind become spirit when it soars, sees and sings?

Neither body nor mind offers any difficulty in the problem of life. The body, of itself, can do nothing; the mind is guiltless of any offense. Reason sees what is true and bids us follow it.

But between body and mind, so to put it, there is a dark corner—an unknown region, unexplored, untamed; a jungle where hide all sorts of impulses, instincts, emotions, inhibitions, like wild beasts. It is a kind of "Goodman's Croft," as they used to say in Scotland, a corner of the field left untended, which grows up in weeds. It is a kind of offering to the Devil, a bribe to evil spirits.

Just when we see the truth and set out to follow it, some mad passion leaps out from that dark corner, tears us to pieces, and our national life is wrecked. Here is the danger point in human life. Until that bit of old chaos is reduced to order, if it ever can be; until that dark corner is lighted up, the problem of human nature will baffle us, and there will be war and wickedness and woe.

If today our world is chaotic and tangled, it is only because we, each of us, are chaotic within. We want to change everything except ourselves; but that is futile—what we are the world is.

Interesting Letter From Miss Dement To The Telegraph

In a letter to The Telegraph Miss Lucia Dement of this city writes interestingly of her work in Memphis, Tenn., saying she has "been enjoying this very active life my 'Little Sister' leads. Such a busy woman as she is—takes a car full to Sunday school, collects and delivers the old ladies for church and is thinking of someone every hour of the day as far as I can see; leading clubs, luncheons, teas and dinner. They had me speaking something like six times in the first two weeks.

"However the two interests particularly dear to my heart as the 'Creative Youth Group' my sister started and the 'Opportunity Classes' for girls out of work, which she is running for the Y. W. C. A. In the creative group which I have been teaching each student chooses the problem she wishes to do and I help them all to give their work art form.

"I will give a lantern lecture next Tuesday evening on 'Art Appreciation.' The interest, attention, and appreciation the groups showed a few nights ago when I gave them a talk on 'Youth, Success and Ideals' convinced me of the success my sister had made of the endeavor to meet their needs. The schools and Scouts of America have cared for the school ages, but after leaving high school too many young people are set adrift without stimulus and assistance in the fine art of living, and I am convinced opportunity classes would be valuable."

Miss Dement enclosed clippings from the Memphis Press-Scimitar, picturing work done in the classes, and an editorial from the same paper, captioned "A Living Memorial," which extolled the efforts of her sister to perpetuate the memory of Henry Rugg, Miss Dement's nephew. The editorial is:

A LIVING MEMORIAL
 Better than cold marble is a living memorial that serves humanity.

Among living memorials there has been none conceived that is finer or more appropriate than that which Mrs. Louis E. Rugg has "erected" in the memory of her son, Henry, who died in the vigor of young manhood less than two years ago.

Her memorial is to entertain her son's friends in her home once a month. It is more than an entertainment, for at these meetings these young people discuss and try to find out what is important for them in economics, politics, art and philosophy. Here they find something better than the ordinary social life, so often empty of significance.

One part of immortality is the effect of the life we have lived on those who come after us. Who knows what good may come from the meeting of these young people, what stimulus to the mind and spirit that may lead to an interesting, a useful, a noble, or perhaps even a great act?

Thus the life of Henry Rugg, through his mother's perpetuation of it, is a stone dropped in the waters of life, making ever wider circles of influence.

Cameramen Only Delay in Speed Record Wedding

Chicago, March 26—(AP)—The bridegroom saw the bride for the first time in his life and said "hello." Then he kissed her and two minutes later they were man and wife.

The marriage took place at the municipal airport today, ending a long-distance courtship by air mail. The principals were Mrs. Mildred Olson, 41, widow from Pasadena, Calif., and John S. Ericson, 45, of Chicago, department head for a radio company.

"She saw my picture in a magazine three months ago," Ericson related, "and wrote that she'd like to become pen-pals with me. We carried on a correspondence for three months. It was all by air mail. We couldn't wait for the trains, after it got serious."

He proposed and she accepted and today she came to Chicago by plane. Ericson had a minister—his uncle, the Rev. Albin Johnson—waiting. The two minutes delay between the time she stepped from the plane until the final "I do" was not hesitation. They had to pause for photographs.

Brownie Pack Enjoys International Revel on Tuesday

Brownie Pack III had a thrilling International Revel on Tuesday, March 24. During the past month the Brownies have been working toward this revel by doing various handicraft projects, learning folk dances, etc. to use at this time.

Now Brownies employ a bit of "magic" so their meetings may be held in any part of the world. On Tuesday as the little people arrived, they bought tickets for a trip to foreign ports on the "Brown Magic Steamship." Since each had her necessary passport, they were soon on the steamer bound for far away lands. Each "six" was dressed to represent some foreign country, and Japan, China, India, and Holland were much in evidence.

The first stop on the unusual trip was Japan, from there to China, then to India and finally via airplane to Holland. In true Brownie fashion, the group found a playground in each country and proceeded to play one of that country's favorite games.

At the end of the journey, delicious refreshments were served, with each "six" serving something in keeping with the country it chose to represent. The cookies served were made by those Brownies who are working toward the "Golden Hand" award. Each refreshment table held an interesting display of souvenirs gathered from some foreign country.

Needless to say, the twelve guests spent a most enjoyable hour and they were much impressed with the "Brownie way" of doing things. The leaders of this pack are Mrs. D. C. Bryant and Mrs. H. M. Edwards. Much credit is due them for the unusual project they worked out.

Polo Club Hears Of Spring Poems

(Telegraph Special Service.)

Polo.—"When the Spring with magic finger Taps at earth's dark portal dreary—"

then it is, the old Polish folk song goes on to explain, that imprisoned voices may sweetly sing their cheeriest songs. "Spring Poems" was a delightful part of the Woman's Club's Tuesday afternoon program. Following this, William T. Hewetson of Preepert, talked of "Color in Wild Flowers."

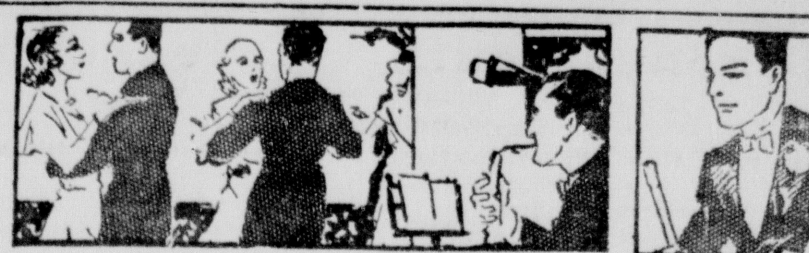

The speaker illustrated his informal talk with beautifully colored sketches from his own brush. "The early chemists made their own pigments, following nature's methods," said Mr. Hewetson, "and flowers make their own pigments by converting the elements of the soil into colors. Originally, the upper leaves of the plants were the flowers and were blue green and yellow green, later taking on other colors and shapes."

Continuing, the speaker said, "Long ago Luther Burbank made the interesting discovery that flowers, insects and birds assist each other in propagation and methods of sustenance. For instance, flowers produce juices and honey for bees, and these and other insects in turn pollinate the flowers, making it possible for them to reproduce. Flowers use color and fragrance to attract the birds who eat the seeds and scatter them by means of their feet."

"The father of the wild flower," said this student of nature, "is the butterfly. Scientists say that new species are produced, sometimes, by feed falling on different soil and growing under different conditions."

The next meeting on April 14th will be an American Home program and Mrs. J. Marc Fowler of Chicago will give "The American Mother," a lecture.

RETURN OF THE 2-CENT FARE

Order of the interstate commerce commission that eastern railroads shall introduce the 2-cent coach fare
for railroads is of considerable importance as a development in transportation circles.

Western railroads experimented with it and had it extended from time to time while it was attended by favorable results. So well was the change received in the west that the commerce commission imposed it
upon the east, where only the Baltimore & Ohio favored it.

History of railway fares and their alteration is not without interest and not without some importance as changes are being made.

Three cents a mile was a standardized passenger fare for years after the country had been covered by the network of transportation systems. Then came the anti-railway agitation. Half the legislators went to their sessions with pockets carrying bills designed to penalize the railroads and bring themselves votes.

It was one of those waves like the waves that brought most of the states direct primary laws and public utility commissions and blue sky laws. Those things come in waves and politicians seek to ride on their popularity.

So somebody conceived the idea of compelling the railroads to put into effect in his state a fare of 2 cents a mile. Then the adjoining state and the one adjoining that enacted similar legislation. Some times investigations were carried on before the law was passed, but usually not.

It became a sort of a heaven-born rate.

Then the contagion reached the state of New York,
having come out of the west. In the governor's office sat a man who had achieved more or less fame as a reformer of insurance companies, Gov. Charles Evans Hughes. When the bill came up to him to be signed,
he made some inquiry as to the facts upon which the legislation was based. The principal fact he encountered was the fact that the legislature had not based
the legislation upon facts but merely upon the wave
that was crossing the country. Somebody had said
2 cents a mile was enough for the railroads to charge
and thereafter it was written into the laws of that state
and of numerous states.

Governor Hughes vetoed the bill, and it was a somewhat notorious veto in light of the fact that other states were going ahead with enforcement of their 2-cent fare laws. None could question the wisdom of his position, however. His position was that the New York legislature had done nothing to determine whether a fare of 2 cents was too much or too little or why
it was just right.

Inasmuch as the existing powers of the interstate commerce commission had not reached their present
proportions, the action was by states alone.

Notable also was the case of the state of Missouri.
The legislature had followed in the wake of other western states and had passed the fare law. But Missouri was not thickly settled with prosperous people as were Illinois, Iowa, and Indiana, and was not enjoying the passenger traffic produced in some of the states of the plains that were not so thickly settled.

North of the Missouri river the state is similar to its northern and western neighbors, but south of it is the Ozark country. Railways contended that they could not operate in that country at 2 cents a mile.
Judge Smith McPherson of the United States court of the southern district of Iowa, sitting in the Missouri
district, held that the rate was confiscatory in the less productive territory and therefore was unconstitutional.

That decision raised about as much uproar among traveling men and others as some supreme court decisions have made among New Dealers. So the cure for that was said to be to elect United States judges
by votes of the patrons of passenger trains or something like that. Anyhow, it was the same old cry against the court when somebody's advantage has been taken away from him.

These were all state laws. Then, as now, it was necessary to take note of the difference between intrastate commerce and interstate commerce. The government was not in the rate-making business, so there was no interstate rate as such. In this situation the railways could charge 2 cents a mile for traffic within a state and 3 cents when it crossed state borders.

Eventually this became more of a nuisance than for the railways to accept the situation as it was and make the 2-cent fare general, which they did. It so continued for about ten years. Then came the war, increased pay for employees, governmental operation, government
tax on fares and on Pullman charges, and out of it all
we emerged with a rate of 3.6 cents a mile, and that was imposed upon us until it about wrecked the passenger business. Then the western lines began their satisfactory experiment with 2-cent coach fares and other reductions.

Finally, the courts held that the interstate commerce commission had jurisdiction over commerce
within the stream of interstate commerce, even though it did not go beyond state borders. It readily will be seen how that theory developed in this varying conduct of the states on commerce in the stream of interstate business. It is in the exercise of that power that the interstate commerce commission now, after review of the effect of reduced fares where they have been tried

and the probable effect elsewhere, orders the new rate
for coach travel.

It was largely on the basis of this process of giving
the federal government control over intrastate rates
that the New Deal sought to regulate everything on the theory that it "affected interstate commerce."

The supreme court recognized that such a contention was ridiculous.

THE TINY TINIEST

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

As Windy sat up in the tree, we Dotty shouted, "Mercy me! The flowers you are holding have wee faces. My, they're sweet."

"Please bring the branch down to the ground. The rest of us will gather 'round and eye the blossoms
closer. It will be a pleasant treat."

The bird that gave the flowers to wee Windy said, "Go on and do what that fair lass suggested, but
be careful and don't fall."

"I told you that a big surprise
would pop out right before your eyes. Remember, though, you must not injure those fair blossoms at all."

"I will be careful," Windy said.
"In fact I will climb down instead of jumping." In a moment he was standing with the rest.

"Now, what are we supposed to do, to bring the big surprise that you said we would get?" cried Goldy
to the bird. "We'll do our best."

"Oh, everything is up to me," the bird replied. "Just watch! You'll see my fly around and flap my wings. Then I'll fly out of sight."

"The blossoms then will start to change. Of course, you'll think it very strange, but if you're not impatient, everything will be all right."

The Tiniest all stood very still,
just waiting for a sudden thrill. It wasn't very long until the strange bird flew away.

In just a moment Coppy yelled,
"Just look how those small blossoms
have swelled. They've changed right into oranges. Ah, we'll have a treat today."

An orange then fell to the ground
and, for a moment rolled around.
Then Scouty picked it up and said,
"Here's where I have some fun."

"I'll cut this fruit up. 'Twill be nice, and everyone can have a slice.
When we have eaten this one, we will pick the other one."

(The Tiniest meet a very funny cricket in the next story.)

DAILY HEALTH

INSANITY AND ADOLESCENCE

At the stage of early adulthood
the brain should be in control of the inner instinctual drives of the individual, so that these are integrated with the requirements of social existence.

However, the adolescent doesn't always succeed in attaining such
an effective degree of readjustment.
Unequal development may produce distortion and disharmony. The impulsive drives may prove too strong for easy bridling by the critical powers of the brain, or the intellect
may exceed the initiative.

Day-dreaming, comparatively
normal and innocuous in childhood,
may now substitute for the expect-
conquest of a world too frightening and cruel. The dream now takes the place of the deed.

The emotional center, shifted during adolescence, may find no proper focus. For in infancy and childhood
the individual is self-centered (egocentric), while in adolescence he is bound to become altruistic.

The object of the cause to which the altruism of the adolescent is attached is largely accidental. If the object proves in time unsuitable
or the cause unworthy, the effects of such a disappointment may prove disrupting to the emotional
and mental life of the individual.

The disruption experienced may be of a mild and temporary nature,
or may assume a progressive and malignant form. Just what throws

the scales in one direction or another, is not known yet. Many believe that inherent, constitutional
and hence unalterable factors,
largely influence the ultimate issue.

The trend of modern clinical psychiatry, however, stresses the factors of environment and experience
both in prevention and treatment
of mental disease.

The psychoses of adolescence and young adulthood seldom develop acutely. Their onset is usually gradual, and a change in disposition
may be perceived long before the condition assumes clinical proportions. At this early stage proper psychiatric treatment offers the best promise of good results.

FAKE INJURIES

It is well known that many personal injury claims are based on fictions of imagination. They say time heals all wounds but they always seem to grow worse when a damage suit hangs fire.

Usually just before the statute of limitations expires the plaintiff
"cracks down" alleging that as a result of injuries, long since sustained, he has suffered the gamut
of ailments from apoplexy to zymo-sis. When nothing definite can be alleged they plead the "shattered nervous system," a tear jerker that is always much easier to claim than disprove.

There are deserving cases, of course, which merit damages but the phoney ones are much too common. So if you must crash, pick out an inanimate object without a nervous system.

Juries are sympathetic and too often the melody played on the heart
strings by a clever attorney, completely tunes out the facts.

The spectre of litigation always lurks in the background when an accident occurs. Which is just one more reason why it pays to drive carefully. The accident that never happens can never reach a jury.

JAYHAWKS LEAD FIELD, OLYMPIC BASKET TRIALS

Kansas Turns Back Utah State 39-37 At Kansas City

New York, March 26.—(AP)—The Jayhawks of Kansas University, coached by F. C. "Phog" Allen, stood at the head of the class of college basketball candidates for the Olympic basketball final trials today but there were plenty of other teams ready to give them an argument.

Kansas, starting a bit ahead of the field in the inter-district play-offs which will determine the five college teams to go into the finals, turned back Utah State 39 to 37 at Kansas City last night in the opening game of a two out of three series. The Jayhawks had a tough battle, although they were on top most of the time, and finally won out in an overtime period.

Washington got off to a good start in the Pacific coast elimination involving four teams, by whipping Southern California 41 to 27.

Inter-district play-offs in two other sections are slated to begin tonight with Arkansas facing Western State Teachers of Kentucky at Little Rock and Minnesota meeting DePaul of Chicago at Chicago.

The fifth college finalist will be decided at Philadelphia Saturday in a single game between Niagara and Temple.

The Y. M. C. A. tournament, which will send one team into the finals at Madison Square Garden in April along with the five college and two A. A. U. entries, opens at Peoria, Ill., today with ten teams entered.

SURVIVORS OF GOLF TOURNEY REACH FINALS

Pinehurst, N. C., March 25.—(AP)—Sixty survivors in the $4,000 North and South open golf championship began a 36-hole wind-up today with $10,000 prize money awaiting the winner.

At the half-way mark of the 72-hole tournament, Henry Picard, of Hershey, Pa., was two strokes behind Ray Manrum who shot a sizzling 68 yesterday to go into first place with a total of 141. The Hershey professional, winner of the Charleston open last week was favored for the title, however.

Picard matched his first day's 71 with a 72 for a total of 143. Gene Sarazen, the Connecticut farmer, was in third place with a 74-71—145, and Paul Runyan, of White Plains, N. Y., was a stroke behind with a 75-71—146.

Still in the running for top prizes was a group at 147 consisting of Harry Cooper and Horton Smith, the Chicagoans, Jimmy Thompson, Beverly Hills, Calif., Clarence Doser, Rochester, N. Y., E. J. Harrison, Little Rock, Ark., and Tony Manero, Greensboro, N. C.

Good Bowlers Of Past Years Roll In Indianapolis

Indianapolis, March 26.—(AP)—Headliners of yesteryear will perform tonight in the American Bowling Congress tournament, among them Frank Benkovic of Milwaukee who shared the doubles title in 1932 and 1933 and Charley Daw, also of Milwaukee, thrice A. B. C. champion.

Colorful Mort Lindsey of Stamford, Conn., is scheduled to roll in the team event. Lindsey holds the highest average in A. B. C. competition over a span of years, being above 200 for 25 tournaments.

The seventeenth day of the tournament took a dull turn in the scoring. Only one change was registered among the five leaders, Casey Mills of Enid, Okla., going into a tie for fifth position with 1874.

All Ten Entries National Y.M.C.A. Meet Open Today

Peoria, Ill., March 26.—(AP)—All ten entries in the national Y. M. C. A. basketball tournament see action in the first round starting today.

The unusually small entry list, with several Pennsylvania teams deciding against entering because of the eastern floods, puzzled tourney officials. The opening game drew teams from Kansas City, Mo., and Muncie, Ind., at 2:15 P. M. (CST).

A second afternoon game pits Buffalo, N. Y., against Corbin, Ky., while the first evening game will be between Oak Park, Ill., and Lincoln, Neb. The second evening battle will feature Denver against Peoria, while the defending champions, Wilmerding, Pa., clash with Stamford, Conn., in the final night contest.

Finals will be played Saturday night. The winner will compete in the Olympic cage trials April 3 in New York.

Coach Ed Manley and four swimmers will fly from here to New Haven, Conn., to compete Friday and Saturday at the national intercollegiate swimming championships. The tankmen, Henry Hansen, Norm Lewis, Warren Overman and John Ervin, form the 440-yard relay team which won the Western conference title in the record time of 3 minutes 38.5 seconds.

ABBOTT ROUNDS OUT LONG TERM WITH TROOP 89

Been In Scouting Since 1926 In This City

(This is the third of a series of articles on Scoutmasters of Lee and Ogle counties who have been in scouting five years or more.)

Since 1933, Troop 89, sponsored by the Christian church, has risen in prominence and size until today it is the largest and best-equipped troop in Lee county. When one searches for the reasons instigating this development one inevitably discovers in its leader the prime motivating force.

Kenneth Abbott became a Scout in October, 1926, and served as a Scout until December, 1930, in old Troop 80 of the St. Luke's Episcopal church. In 1930 he became an assistant Scoutmaster and in December, 1933, he was selected as Scoutmaster of Troop 89 in which capacity he has served ever since.

Ken is a tall, dark-complexioned lad, and some say not only the boys but the girls are interested in him. And well they might be, especially when he is regaled in that brilliant Scoutmaster's uniform and bedecked with all the medals of his Scout achievements.

Ken is entitled to receive the five year veteran's pin and has had training in the Elements of Scoutmasterhood course, Parts I and II. Troop 89 at present has 28 boys enrolled and he possesses in his troop enough boys over 15 years of age to form a senior patrol group for future leadership.

As Ken's hobby is Scouting it is not surprising that the boundless energy, time and spirit he has devoted to the work have produced fruit.

The commission, supervising racing at Aurora, Hawthorne, Washington Park, Arlington Park, Lincoln Fields, Fairmount and Sportsman's Park, has launched a campaign to stamp out the stimulating evil. Every winner at those seven tracks, the commission decided on Wednesday, will be given a saliva test immediately after coming under the finish wire.

The commission recommended installation of electrical equipment for "camera eye" finishes, totalizers, and receiving barns as soon as tracks find it possible. The receiving barn, tried out with success at Santa Anita and in Florida, would house horses for a full hour before they go to the post, with the state veterinarian in charge during the time.

GOLDEN STATE WILL PRODUCE TRACK TALENT

Olympic Timber Is Expected Out Of California

(Note: This is the ninth of a series of stories on American Olympic track and field prospects, written by the sports editor of The Associated Press in collaboration with this country's foremost coaches.)

BY ALAN GOULD

New York, March 26.—(AP)—The track-minded state of California, which furnished the setting for the record-smashing tenth Olympiad in 1932, will produce more talent for the American athletic cast this year than any other part of the country, in the opinion of our leading coaches.

A consensus state of their selections for the track and field team that will wear the shield in the forthcoming Olympics at Berlin shows California at the top of the list with 17 "probable starters."

This is one more than either the east or the middle-west figures to contribute to the All-Star Olympic lineup. Each of these sections has 16 potential Olympians, in the judgment of the coaches. The south is expected to contribute six, with one each from the southwest and Rocky mountain sections.

Confining selections to 20 of the 23 track and field events—all except the 50,000 meters walk, and two relays—the coaches' consensus accounts for 57 out of 60 possible places. They reach no decision on the probable third entry for the 10,000 meters run, the 3,000 meters steeplechase or the discus throw.

Owens in Three Roles. Ohio State's Jesse Owens, allotted three places, and Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette and Eulace Peacock of Temple, each with two, are the only athletes figured for iron-man roles in the following consensus selections:

100 meters—Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette; Jesse Owens, Ohio State; Eulace Peacock, Temple.

200—Metcalfe, Owens and George Anderson, California.

400—Eddie O'Brien, Syracuse; Jimmy Luvale, U. C. L. A.; Ray Ellwood, Chicago.

WILD HOSS IN PASTURE

The St. Louis Cardinals are turning the Wild Horse of the Osage, Pepper Martin, loose in green pastures this year, and the old Pepper Pot's presence in the outfield is expected to build up the garden section's punch at the plate. Martin, after playing third base for three years, will team up with Joe Medwick and Terry Moore in the outer defense. He is shown here in an unusual training camp pose.

CONNIE MACK FACES DISMAL BALL OUTLOOK

Athletics Doomed To Cellar Again; Lack Talent

Fort Myers, Fla., March 26.—(AP)—Old Connie Mack didn't know. He didn't know there existed such a big shortage of good young ball players today; he didn't know that pitchers with even a fair knowledge of how to throw weren't waiting at every cross roads towns for a big league chance; he didn't know that the Philadelphia fans, who never seemed to give a hoot, would take the sale of his last cluster of stars to heart.

Connie Mack knows now. He's worried and sad, as grand a fighter and as shrewd as he is. A lone lease on the American cellar faces him once more.

Some 50 ball players, recruited from everywhere are drilling hard and talking it up under the keen blue eyes of the old master down here at Fort Myers.

Spirit? There isn't a club in baseball with more of it. Philadelphia fans are bound to be impressed with a bunch of youngsters who will never stop trying and fighting to win.

Lacks Class.

Class? With Jimmie Foxx, Eric McNair, Rogers Cramer and John Marcum gone from a team that surrendered and finished in the cellar last year, there couldn't be much left. A nucleus is present with the leftovers from the December sale but the one big ingredient, pitching, is missing.

There are 20 hurlers in camp but injuries and lack of pitching knowledge among the rookies have made the task hard and difficult. Connie probably will depend on Bill Dietrich, Whitey Wilshire, Duster Rhodes, Charles Lieber, and Henry Johnson. Lieber and Wilshire now have sore arms and Rhodes has a sprained ankle.

Defensively, except for pitching, and offensively, Connie should fare well. Working in the infield will be Pinky Higgins, third; Hal Wristler, second; Lenar Newcome, short, and Jim Oglesby, a hard hitting rookie from Los Angeles, at first. Lou Finney may be shifted from the outfield to take over first should Oglesby flunk out. Finney Bob Johnson, Wally Moses and George Puccinelli, 28-year-old rookie with a great punch from Baltimore, will compromise the outfield. Catching is another serious question. Connie may yet swing a deal for an experienced catcher to help out the veteran Charlie Berry.

Bisbee, Ariz.—Silent John Whitehead, last year's rookie sensation, may be the first White Sox pitcher to go the full nine innings this spring. Whitehead is due to pitch against the Pirates when the Sox leave the Grapefruit league behind and looks about ready to go the route the next start after that.

New Orleans—Clint Brown, veteran Cleveland pitcher, has been one of Manager Steve O'Neill's biggest puzzles this spring but he seems to have found the solution. Clint gave New Orleans only two hits and one walk in four innings yesterday.

West Palm Beach, Fla.—With no more exhibition games scheduled here, the Browns finally may get around to looking at the ocean and taking a swim. Manager Rogers Hornsby has planned short workouts today and tomorrow to give his players time to visit the beach.

Bradenton, Fla.—The Cards will be looking toward the "lucky seventh" for a while to see if they can duplicate their feats of yesterday's game with Columbus. It was in the seventh that they put together seven hits and a few walks, errors, etc. for seven runs.

Mrs. Crews Meets Miss Wattles In Semi-Final Today

Augusta, Ga., March 26.—(AP)—Stalwart Mrs. Maureen Orcutt Crews today found Peggy Wattles disputing her right to a finals berth in the Augusta women's invitational golf tournament.

The Miami shotmaker, a pace setter for a decade, has been playing sterling golf over the tough hill layout of the Augusta Country club and breezed through yesterday's quarter final test with a 5 and 4 decision over Barbara Bourne of Augusta.

Miss Wattles, another veteran hailing from Buffalo, was even more impressive in swamping Helen Waring, of Pinehurst, N. C., 8 and 7.

Two lesser known swingers make up the other bracket with Edith Begg, a Cleveland girl who has proven to be the dark horse of the competition, meeting Jane Colbran of Greenville, S. C.

What Candidates For Governorship of Illinois Said

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Commenting on what he said were threats to Chicago city employees that they would lose their jobs if they supported him for renomination, Gov. Henry Horner said at Danville: "That is just another step backward for the man who wants to be dictator of Illinois. Boss Kelly is in a panic and so are all those in the crowd with him."

Millions more throughout Great Britain and the rest of the world will be neglecting their work while awaiting the first news of the result.

Most of those who have a bet down on a ticket in the sweepstakes—and it's estimated there are 8,000,000 better in England—are likely to be disappointed, for as often as not it's an outsider that wins the gruelling race.

STEEPLECHASE TO BE VIEWED BY THOUSANDS

Grand National Is Of World Wide Prominence

London, March 26.—(AP)—Thousands of Londoners today began their annual exodus to Aintree, site of the Grand National steeplechase to be raced tomorrow.

Close to 200,000 turf lovers, and many who ordinarily wouldn't cross the street to see a horse race but are lured by the glamor of the Grand National, will be gathered tomorrow morning around the 4½ mile Aintree course.

Other favored entries, among the 35 which remained on the list today, included Mrs. Violet Mundy's Avenge at 9 to 1; G. H. Bostwick's Castle Irwell, 100 to 1; Lord Rosebery's Keen Blade, 100 to 1; J. B. Snow's Delaneige, 20 to 1; Lady Lindsay's Blue Prince, and G. Beeby's Brienz, 33 to 1.

Castle Irwell, which will be ridden by his owner, Pete Bostwick, and Delaneige are the leading American-owned candidates. Double Crossed, Royal Ransom and Rod and Gun, all owned by J. H. Whitney and Jesse Metcalf's Kiltot are other American entries.

The Philippines, with all their 7083 islands, have an area of only 114,000 square miles, or about that of Arizona. The population of the Philippines is almost 12,000,000, while Arizona has only 435,000 inhabitants.

MEN! STILL TIME TO WIN $12,000 IN CASH PRIZES

EASY CONTEST GIVES EVERY SMOKER AN EQUAL CHANCE

If you haven't yet sent in your letter for this Bayuk PHILLIES Prize Contest—here's a suggestion. Stop at any cigar counter. Let the dealer tell you how many men—after smoking PHILLIES to enter this contest—say it's the most enjoyable cigar they've ever tried. Then smoke one yourself—slowly and leisurely. Enjoy its mildness and full, rich Havana flavor. Note how slowly and evenly it burns. . . the firm, clean ash. . . the absence of loose ends coming out in your mouth.

Then you're all set to write that prize-winning letter. But whether you write it or not—one thing is certain. You will have discovered new pleasure from a cigar. Also why more men smoke PHILLIES than any other cigar in America.

HOW'S THIS FOR AN EASY CONTEST?

1. Write us—in not more than 100 words—why you like the Bayuk PHILLIES Cigar. (Your dealer will assist you in preparing your letter and give you all necessary information.)
2. Send us three PHILLIES Cigar bands—or three pencil drawings of the band.
3. Give name and address of dealer from whom you bought the cigars.
4. Mail your letter to Contest Editor, Bayuk Cigars Inc., Philadelphia, Pa.
5. Prizes will be awarded for what you say—not how you say it.

Send in as many letters as you please. But each entry must be accompanied by three PHILLIES bands, or drawings of the band. All letters must be in the mail before midnight, April 10th.

WIN ONE OF THESE PRIZES FOR SMOKERS

FIRST PRIZE . . . $2,500.00
SECOND PRIZE . . . $1,000.00
THIRD PRIZE . . . $500.00
80 PRIZES OF . . . $50.00 EACH

No smoker has a better chance than you to win. The rules are simple and easy—and there are 83 prizes ranging from $2,500 to $50. Simply tell us in plain words why you like PHILLIES. The prize-winning letters will not necessarily be the cleverest or written in the best English. It is what you say—not how you say it—that will count. Could any contest be easier? So go to it—and win!

BIGGEST CHAW

Toothache? No. It's probably the biggest chaw of scrap tobacco to puff out the jaw of any man in the majors. It adorns the fazed face of Lou Warneke, Chicago Cubs' ace twirler, and is said to be bigger and better than ever this year. Warneke's arm, injured in the world series last year, is in fine shape, and he expects to pitch the Cubs to their second pennant in a row.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

TO the Greeks, he was Hermes; to the Italians, Mercury; and to the Egyptians, Thaut;—this prancing, joking, thieving messenger of the gods. Wearing winged head-dress and sandals, and carrying the caduceus, his staff of office, Hermes not only bore the orders of Zeus, his father, but guided the destinies of travelers and of thieves.

When only a few months old, it is said, Hermes saw a tortoise on its back, and noticed that the dried, stretched skin produced a musical sound when plucked. From this discovery, he invented the lyre. While still a baby, he stole from his cradle and led away the oxen of Admetus. As a result, he became the patron of thieves.

Despite his knavery, however, Hermes was considered a friendly god and protector of strangers. Statues of him were set up at crossroads to guide the travelers and protect the homeless. His flying figure appears on the 10-dra chmae valuation of Greece's newest issue of my thological stamps.

was His teaching concerning the Kingdom of God.

What is that Kingdom? How are its boundaries defined for human life? How can we find our place in it as citizens?

These questions are not easily answered, or there would not have been so much discussion and controversy over the matter throughout the years. The teaching of Jesus concerning the Kingdom was chiefly in parables, and perhaps it is in examining these, rather than in trying to draw maps and blueprints, that we may understand
what Jesus meant by the Kingdom of God and what he taught concerning man's entrance into it.

Here in our lesson we have the parable of the grain of mustard seed, the parable of the leaven, the parable of the door, and the parable
of the master of the house called
at night to open to those who clamored for entrance.

The parable of the mustard seed
suggests the truth, that Jesus emphasized elsewhere, that the Kingdom of God does not come by observation. It takes its roots in the human heart as a grain of mustard seed thrown into a garden, but if its heart is receptive to the rule and guidance of God, the Kingdom
grows until it is powerful to embrace the whole man.

Very similar is the parable of the leaven. The Kingdom, as a hidden and powerful influence in the heart, changes the whole life,
just as the lump of leaven transforms the meal.

Who, and how many, can find entrance into that Kingdom? This was the question they asked Jesus.
"Lord, are there few that be saved?"
Not His reply. It was not a matter of numbers, but a matter of the means of entrance.

There is little value in discussing
such speculative questions but there is great value in making sure of one's entrance into the Kingdom.
Moreover, there is only one such means of entrance, and that is taking the leaven of God's love into our lives.

In the great testing day, more profession will avail us nothing. It will mean little to speak of our belief, and our practices, but the test will be what we really are, and what we have really done with the talents of faith and conscience and love.

There is, however, a clear and effective revelation of the Kingdom
for us in Jesus Himself. If the mysteries of the Kingdom seem too
deep for understanding, if the nature of the Kingdom and its relation to our modern world are matters of doubt, there can be no question about the example that Jesus has given and the power of Jesus to save, uplift, and uphold us in following Him as members of His Kingdom.

NEWS of the CHURCHES

LENTEN SERVICES

A splendid audience attended the first of the Lenten services held by the united churches in the Methodist church last evening. The Rev.
A. D. Shaffer, president of the Dixon Ministerial Association presided.
The scripture lesson was from the twenty-first chapter of Luke's gospel. Dr. Howard P. Buxton introduced the speaker, Dr. Charles R.
Goff, the popular pastor of Court street Methodist Episcopal church of Rockford. He said in part:

"We are living in troublesome times and sometimes we wonder if it would not be a good time to die
and get out of it all, but the times
challenge us to live. To face difficulties and to conquer is a good test
of our Christianity. The passage that our chairman read has been interpreted from various stand-
points, some thinking our Lord referred to the fall of Jerusalem but I am not speaking about the prophetic interpretation. I would like to talk about 'Winning Your Own Soul' and use the text: 'Be patient.' In your patience possess your soul. It was a time of dramatic intensity for there was great trouble ahead. We are living in times of elemental disturbances
such as those to which the Lord referred but I want to make a personal application tonight. Are you winning your own soul? We ought to realize that we are a soul and that we have a body. Our bodies
change every ten years but our soul remains. Are we winning it to the higher loyalties? Do not yield to the lure of the lesser things but strive to build your soul upon the great things of Jesus Christ.

Michael Angelo was observed one day in contemplation before a shapeless block of marble: "What are you seeking?" asked a friend. "I am seeing an angel and my chisel
and mallet will set it free." What do you see in your soul? Let us try to win it away from evil and worldly things. There is a hunger in your soul. Satisfy it with the things of Christ. Madame Curie went through hundreds of tons of pitch blende searching for a grain of radium and your soul is of infinite value. When the old American colored preacher visited Aldersgate Church in London and read on the brass tablet "This is the spot where the heart of John Wesley was warmed," he was heard to pray,
"Lord, do it again."

Dr. Goff will again preach tonight at 7:30 in the Methodist church and his subject will be: "Can Human Nature Be Changed?"
Dr. Buxton will preside. A hearty welcome is extended to everybody
to come.

After the service a reception was held for Dr. and Mrs. Goff in Dr.
and Mrs. Buxton's home where the local pastors and their wives met
the speaker and had a very pleasant evening. Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Buxton.

TORY RYAN, 19, works behind
the jewelry counter of a large Manhattan department store. She poses for a photograph to be used in a store advertisement and MARTY RIATY, the photographer, tells her she has a "camera
face."

Discharged from the store due to the scheming of jealous
MARTINE HALL, Tory has difficulty finding another job. Then she meets MARTY RIATY and he sends her to BEN BLAKE, manager of a model agency. Tory registers at the agency, secures
several modeling jobs.

On a bus one afternoon she
meets wealthy TIMOTHY JAMIE-SON who asks her to have dinner with him. Tory refuses. Instead, she dines with BILL
BIANDY, an old friend.

Arriving home, Tory hears a message has come for her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XIV

TORY read the pencilled message.

"Thank you, Mrs. Moeller," she said. "I suppose I'd better call right away."

She went to the telephone and dialed a number, aware that though the rooming house keeper
had stepped out of sight, the door
of her room remained open. Mrs.
Moeller, ever curious about telephone calls, was showing increasing interest in Tory's. Privately,
Mrs. Moeller admitted that a job
like Tory's—"posing to have her picture taken"—might be all right.
Just the same—

It was Harriet Holm's voice that came over the wire. "Hello," she said. "Is that you, Tory?"

"Yes. I just came in and got your message. I hope I'm not botch-ing you, calling so late."

"Not at all! Say, Tory, there's going to be a fashion show tomorrow—a benefit of some kind at the Ritzmarz hotel. I'm going to model and I told Sally to put you down for the same assignment."

"But, Harriet, I've never done anything like that. Why, I wouldn't know the first thing about it!"

"I knew you'd say that. That's why I called. But this kind of modeling is lots easier than standing before a camera. There's nothing to it—and if there is anything
that bothers you, you can ask me.
I thought it would be fun working together."

"It would be! And it's awfully nice of you to offer to help me.
Harriet, but still I don't know—"

"Listen, don't you suppose all the other girls were beginners once?
I want you to call the office the first thing in the morning and see that Sally's got you on the list.
There'll be about eight other models, I suppose. There usually are that many."

"Well, if you're sure I can do it—"

"I wouldn't have said a thing about it if I wasn't sure. Of course you can. Listen, why don't you stop here for me? It won't be out of your way and we can go on together. I'll tell you exactly what you're supposed to do—"

At 1 o'clock the next afternoon
the two girls were walking down a corridor of the Ritzmarz
hotel. Ahead from an open door
came a buzz of feminine voices,
high-pitched and all, apparently,
talking at the same time.

Harriet nodded. "This's the place, all right."

Tory didn't answer. They had reached the open doorway and for an instant she stood there. The room, a large one, seemed to be in complete disorder. Furniture had been pushed out of the way. Racks

from which bright-colored costumes hung, obscured one wall. On a large table in the center of the room hats, gloves, furs, shoes and handbags lay in confusion.

Half a dozen girls—all young,
slender, attractive—were grouped
about the table or before the racks
of dresses. In the center, her voice raised in crisp authority, was a small, dark woman in a tailored suit.

"That's Miss Landers," Harriet
whispered to Tory. "She's the stylist who's running the show."

Miss Landers turned and took in the two in the doorway. "Are you girls models?" she asked.

"Yes," Harriet said, coming forward. "I'm Harriet Holm and this is Tory Ryan."

The older woman consulted a memorandum and nodded. "Then everyone's here," she said.

A door into an adjoining room
swung open and a girl appeared.
She was tall, and height accentuated
her slowness, as did the lines of her black and white dress. She wasn't a pretty girl, exactly, though
she certainly was unusual looking.
There was a hint of petulance
about the crimson lips and an odd upward swing to the dark eyebrows.

Harriet had turned away and
was talking to some girls who evidently were old friends. The newcomer came into the room, halted
a few steps from Tory and eyed
her, unsmilingly.

"Where's yours?" she asked abruptly.

"I'm Tory Ryan," Tory told her.
"I'm going to model in the show
this afternoon."

"Oh, are you?" It was a question, yet the tone implied no interest at all in an answer. The dark-haired girl continued to stare
at Tory a moment longer. Then
she said, in a drawing voice,
"Seems to me I've seen you somewhere."

"I don't think it's very likely."

"No?" Again she studied acrutely. Tory felt her cheeks flushing uncomfortably. She would have moved away, but the other girl's voice went on. "Could it have been in Miami? Were you there in February?"

"No," Tory said. "I wasn't in Miami."

"Then, perhaps, it was last fall
at Alken, or on the boat crossing
from Cherbourg?"

TORY shook her head. "I haven't been in any of those places."

"Really? How quaint!" Suddenly the girl laughed. "I have
it!" she said. "You look exactly like a maid I used to have. She wasn't a very good maid; I had to discharge her. Something about stealing some spoons—"

There was no opportunity for a reply. With a shrug of her shoulders, the dark-haired girl was gone.
Tory stood motionless, held by the stinging words. The girl had been deliberately insulting. It was in her manner and tone as well as in the words themselves. And there wasn't any excuse for it—

Harriet came up beside Tory.
She said something, but the other
did not seem to hear. Harriet repeated, "Come on, Tory. Miss Landers is ready for us."

She put a hand on the other girl's arm. Tory nodded, but instead of answering she asked, "Harriet,
who is that girl over by the windows?"

Harriet looked across the room.
"You mean the one in the black and white dress?" she asked.

"Tory said 'Yes.' It was the girl
she had been talking to."

Harriet lowered her voice.
"That," she said, "is about as nice
a dish of poison as you'd be able to find in a day's search. Carol Marsh is her name. One of the Park Avenue darlings who think
it's too, too thrilling to have a career, my dear! So they use the family pull and get jobs that other girls really need. And the other girls go hungry. The blond beside her is her pal, Betty Turnbull.
They're two of a kind—only Carol's worse. If you're lucky, you won't have to work with them very often.
If you do—well, stay out of Carol's
way."

Tory looked at the girl by the window. "I'll stay out of her way,"
she said. "If she stays out of mine.
If she doesn't, she'd better watch
out!"

TORY wouldn't have echoed Harriet's statement that there was
"nothing to" modeling in a fashion show. She thought there was a good deal to it. But working in the studios had accustomed her to being stared at, and she had learned to forget herself and think of the costume she was displaying.

She had some lovely things to wear—bright colored sport things, mostly, because she was small, and
an evening dress that was a dream
—crisp, bonfant net shading from deep rose at the hem to misty pink
over the shoulders.

The charity fashion show was being held in the hotel ballroom.
Small tables had been set up for tea and the models were to parade
slowly among the tables, pausing
when anyone showed interest to tell the name of the designer of the costume and the price.

Tory had expected to be frightened when she first entered the room. She found she wasn't. Carefully she watched the girl ahead of
her. When the other girl was half way across the room, Tory followed. The orchestra was playing a popular tune and she matched
her step to the music.

She was wearing a black taffeta
suit with a short

Who Really Pays a Tax?

By ERNEST MINOR PATTERSON
 President, American Academy of Political and Social Science

Taxation is a tricky and dangerous business. It is dangerous to legislators but it is even more dangerous to you and me. We are parts of the complicated thing we vaguely describe as business whether we are consumers or producers, industrialists or merchants, employers or employees. Our chief concern is or should be with the size of the tax, who pays it and the use to which the funds are put.

Direct taxation is just what its name implies. It goes straight for its mark—the person who pays it. This is the kind that neither the taxing authorities nor the taxpayers like. The burden of the tax is too obvious and immediate. Indirect taxation postpones public criticism, and, unfortunately, frequently silences it entirely by concealing from the person actually taxed the fact that he is paying. Many a federal, state or municipal extravagance would have been prevented had the people who eventually paid the bill known in advance that they were going to meet it.

Some taxes are "shifted" by the taxpayer so that the payment is really made in whole or in part by someone else. Many thoughtless persons believe that all taxes are shifted to the consumer in the form of higher prices. This is very inaccurate although some tax burdens are shifted wholly or in part to others than those taxed. Very few, if any taxes are entirely passed on. Some are paid fully and finally by the person upon whom they are imposed.

A direct tax is not shifted. It falls upon the person who pays it, an indirect tax is shifted, at least in part. In some way or other, the taxpayer passes the burden to someone else, usually in the form of higher prices.

Income taxes are direct. If an income tax is levied clearly and accurately upon a man's income, he cannot easily find a way to shift it. There may, of course, be a loophole in the law. While he may in some way evade payment, he cannot go to his employer and secure higher salary or wages just because he must pay higher taxes.

Tax on land is also direct. Notice that we have said "tax on land," not tax on "real estate." Real estate is both land and improvements on land. A tax on land is difficult to shift. The charge made to a tenant by an owner for the use of land—known as rent—is determined by the supply of rentable land and the demand for it. A tax will not change either the supply of land (which is a gift of nature) or the demand for it. Hence the price paid for its use will not be changed. The owner cannot shift the tax to the tenant.

Retail sales taxes are often direct and paid by the purchaser though the seller often absorbs them. The seller would be glad to pass them on completely in higher prices but if prices are raised, fewer goods will be purchased. If fewer are purchased, fewer are manufactured. If the taxes are too high some manufacturers will be compelled to go out of business. The tax can be "shifted" on because a reduction in the amount manufactured makes possible sales at a higher price.

If this goes on far enough and the reduction in consumption continues, the tax could defeat its revenue-raising purpose. It is possible to tax the thing taxed out of existence though this extreme very seldom happens.

There are countless other complexities. There are few economic matters so intricate. If we want a particular group of persons to pay we should, if possible, levy "direct" taxes on them. Taxes that they cannot "shift." If we cannot easily reach them with direct taxes it will be hard to reach them at all. The trouble with "indirect" taxes is that we can not easily know just how or where they will be shifted. They may actually fall on those who can least afford to pay.

Four times a day they take a little tablet containing in exactly the right quantity a world-famous corrective for abnormal obesity. A corrective prescribed by physicians everywhere and acknowledged to be the most effective known.

Since 1907, more than 20 million packages of Marmola have been purchased. Could any better recommendation be had?

Today—buy a package of Marmola, and start at once. Soon you will experience Marmola's benefits. When you have gone far enough, stop taking Marmola. And you will bless the day you first discovered this marvelous reducing agent.
